Dear Sir/Madam,

I am submitting an application for Web Developer position.

I got my Bachelor's degree in Information Technology from American University in Bosnia and Herzegovina in July, and second IT degree from SUNY Canton, since I was enrolled into a dual-degree program.

As far as my skills and background go, I have experience generally in IT field, but more importantly for this position, in web development. I have been designing and developing web applications right from their conceptual phases until "going live." I have good understanding and experience in HTML, CSS, JavaScript as desired by your company, but also in frameworks and tools such as AngularJS, Gulp, Sass, NodeJS, etc.

I must emphasize that I am highly enthusiastic to learning new languages and frameworks, and always looking to expand my professional horizons. As stated in my CV, I am highly organized, motivated and able to work in different work environments, which would result in a great contribution to your company.

I am attaching my CV for your consideration.

Thank you in advance,
Emir Maljanovic
